

EUISS Annual Conference 2025

03 - 03 Sep 2025

Poll results

Table of contents

- How to get it done?

How to get it done? (1/7)

0 2 8

How should the EU fund its foreign policy ambitions?

Raise more resources (e.g. through EU level borrowing)

Re-direct existing resources (e.g. agricultural spending)

The EU should do less, prioritising only a few key external goals

How to get it done? (2/7)

0 2 8

To overcome blockages and delays, the EU should:

Resort to opt-outs and using tools that do not require unanimity (i.e anti-coercion instrument)

Encourage willing Member States to forge ahead outside of the EU

No, we must continue to seek consensus, even if that means losing effectiveness

How to get it done? (3/7)

0 2 8

In what areas can ad hoc coalitions be most useful?

Diplomatic initiatives

Adoption of sanctions

Defence cooperation and military deployments

How to get it done? (4/7)

0 2 8

Should the EU be more assertive towards the Trump administration?

Yes, even if that endangers US support for Ukraine and European security.

No, America's role in European security is too important

How to get it done? (5/7)

0 2 7

Should the EU be more assertive in dealing with China?

Yes, especially on enforcing sanctions and protecting EU economic interests.

No, we need Chinese cooperation and must avoid confrontation

How to get it done? (6/7)

0 2 7

Where should the EU focus its foreign policy efforts?

The EU must prioritise Ukraine and its own defence

The EU should prioritise stabilising its whole neighbourhood

The EU needs to remain a global actor

How to get it done? (7/7)

0 2 7

To be more effective in foreign policy, what does the EU need most?

More unity between Member States

More flexibility, so the willing can go ahead

Greater financial resources

More willingness to take risks

