

EU-NATO Cooperation on Hybrid Threats

Wednesday, 24 February 2021
09:00-10:30 AM (CET)

The Presidency of the Council of the European Union has the pleasure of inviting you to an online event on EU-NATO cooperation on hybrid threats.

Dr. Daniel Fiott, Security and Defence Editor at the European Union Institute for Security Studies (EUISS) and Nathalie Van Raemdonck, Associate Researcher at the Hannah Arendt Institute and Doctoral Researcher, SMIT-IMEC Research Group, from the Free University of Brussels will address the current state of play and future perspectives on hybrid threats. The following topics will be covered in the webinar:

-  The evolution of threats
-  An update on EU-NATO cooperation on hybrid threats
-  The evolution of the EU's concept of resilience and its similarities with NATO's own version: possible avenues for cooperation, in particular, on disinformation and critical infrastructure protection.

There will also be a Q&A session at the end of the webinar.

Meet our speakers

NATHALIE VAN RAEMDONCK

DR. DANIEL FIOTT